

THE REV EW

OFFICIAL NEWSLETTER FROM
E-GLOBAL GROUP OF COMPAINES

CONTENT

- » Why is checkweighing necessary?
 - » "My experience at E-Global"
A message from Lajja Shah.
 - » Did you Know?
-

Why is checkweighing necessary?

A checkweigher is a system that weighs items as they pass through the production line, classifies the items by the preset weight zones, and sorts the items based on the classification. It weighs, classifies, and segregates the products on the basis of the weight. Checkweigher is a very important component of the quality control and quality check processes, as it acts as a type of “policeman” on the packaging line. It protects against unacceptable under or overweight packages from reaching the customers. There are several international regulations for net content of packages for wholesalers and retailers. Several laws are highly specific to ensure that the right number of packages are being inspected. Organizations that do not conform to these regulations may have to;

- “Stop sale” or “off sale” the orders, which means that the products cannot be sold until they are officially released by the particular jurisdiction.
- Re-weigh or remark every single product of the lot, until all the labels have been corrected, only then can the product be offered for sale
- All the products of the lot can be permanently confiscated.

Adhering to the right application of check-weighing help the manufacturer in eliminating legal problems, as well as consumer complaints. A well maintained checkweigher helps to avoid the costs of overweight products, and maintain the accuracy of average fill weight

New innovative checkweighers have more detailed quality assurance features;

- Checking for open flaps on cartons and cases
- Missing caps
- Checking for barcode labels
- Metal contaminants

A checkweigher can weigh almost any produced item, ranging from items weighing at a few grams, to several hundred kilos.

Checkweighers are highly useful to check the volume and weight of packaged food items.

My experience at E-Global

by Lajja Shah

I have been working with E-Global since last 3 years. It has been a great experience here. Over the years, I have always been given new tasks to be carried out inside the organization. These tasks involved challenges where I needed to get out of my comfort zone. These tasks have helped me grow as a person, brain storm about them and find a way to finish them. But one thing is there for sure that whenever/wherever I am stuck, the organization has always supported me and helped me get a solution for the same.

They have been very helping as the organization treats everyone as their family. I had joined as a fresher, and I was treated as an equal part of the team since then itself. My suggestions and ideas were considered by the team and the management, and that really improved my confidence in my skills and work ethic, and made me want to work even harder. I am proud to be a part of this team!

DO YOU KNOW?

- » Quality assurance and quality control, which is now one of the biggest part of FMCG production, actually originated in the World War II. All the ammunition and equipment that was meant to be used by the soldiers, had to be adequately tested and checked to ensure that the performance was up to par.

Contact Us

info@e-global.in

+91 9714006604

www.e-global.in

Follow Us on

